Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 1600 on Wednesday 02 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Mostly dry and warm on Thursday with some sunshine.

This Evening and Tonight:
Mainly dry with sunny then clear periods. Low cloud and mist along the east coast will spread well inland during the night. Scattered showers coming up from the south will affect southwest Scotland later tonight. Brisk easterly winds.

Thursday:
Much of Scotland will remain dry with some sunshine, best across Moray, Inverness and northwest Highlands. A cloudier day further south with showers fizzling out. Haar slowly clearing from Northeast.

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Generally dry and bright but more cloud for the west with eastern Scotland seeing best of sunshine. A few showers popping up over the weekend, especially in the west.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.